CLEMENT IS ACQUITTED

Was Found Not Guilty of Slander.

PLAINTIFF DISSATISFIED

And Will Ask That the Verdict Be Set
Aside—Verdict Occasions
Little Surprise.

Rutland, Oct. 21.—In the slander case brought by Samuel D. Wilson against Percival W. Clement, the jury in the United States circuit court late this afternoon returned a verdict freeing the defendant from a charge of using slanderous words as alleged by the plaintiff. The plaintiff asked that the verdict be set aside. Three arguments and the judge's charge in the case were made today. There was quite a display of oratory. Mr. Clement was in court listening to his lawyer's address to the jury this morning the first time since he was on the witness stand. On the other hand the plaintiff had been in attendance every minute of the trial assisting his attorneys materially. The verdict causes no surprise here.

Alexander Dunnett of St. Johnsbury opened the argument for the defendant. He started by paying his compliments to a "spotter." He thought that such a character as Wilson must have had could not have been injured by Mr. Clement.

He took up the subject of what Mr. Clement had said and the fact that the plaintiff had not brought a single witness from all Mr. Clement's hearers into court to show that the words alleged had been used. He cited the fact that the Brandon speech on which the plaintiff relied so much in the testimony had not been mentioned in the declaration. Mr. Clement, the lawyer thought had not talked about Wilson, but merely about the incident in showing how the law was being administered. He laid great stress upon the fact that Wilson was not yet of age when the suit was brought. In closing he impressed upon the jurors the fact that they should consider every man's right to express his opinion.

W. B. C. Stickney of Bethel made the closing argument for the defense. Mr. Stickney tried to show that Wilson had not been injured by Mr. Clement. The sole evidence was, according to the orator, that Wilson had suffered mental anguish while in jail, but Mr. Stickney thought it was not necessary for the plaintiff to have read newspaper reports or to have talked about Clement's speeches.

The attorney also dwelt upon the fact of Wilson's youth: that he thought of bringing a suit when in jail and should have had an indolent in mind: that the suit was brought within two months after the plaintiff had returned to Boston following the end of the manslaughter case. The jury's attention was called to the fact that Wilson now looks as prosperous as any young man of his age could be and is occupying a position of his own choosing. Mr. Stickney insisted that in bringing the suit Wilson was a tool of the Vermont Anti-Saloon League. In closing Mr. Stickney said that the evidence had shown that Mr. Clement was promoting reform.

The jurors took the case in hand at 3.30 o'clock. Just two hours and two minutes later they brought in a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff immediately moved to set aside the verdict on the grounds that it was not in accordance with the law and the weight of evidence in the case and that some of the jurors were disqualified. Both sides were granted two weeks to take evidence and a hearing on the motion will be appointed later.

The alleged disqualification of the jurors was based on the fact that during the trial the plaintiff's counsel were informed that two of the men on the jury were disqualified; one, because he was one of Mr. Clement's chief lieutenants in the campaign, when the words were uttered; the other, because he is now an employee of a large corporation in which the defendant is a director. Plaintiff's counsel immediately called the attention of Judge Wheeler to this report and stated that they had no expectation of receiving a just verdict at the hands of such a jury.

It was currently reported that eight of the jury were Clement men. If a new trial is granted, the case will be tried in Burlington at the February term. The question of new trial will be argued after proof is put in of the disqualification of the jurors.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED.

Clarence Chandler of Bennington Arrested and Given Bail.

Bennington, Oct. 21.—Clarence Chandler, in charge of the Harry Willoughby meat market, has been arrested by Sheriff West on a charge of embezzlement, the sum taken being proved at $2,000. It is claimed that Willoughby, who recently purchased the market from C. G. Thompson, was satisfied that something was wrong and put a watch on Chandler, with the result that he found that the money, instead of going into the register went into Chandler's pocket. For four years before hiring with Willoughby Chandler was with Thompson and it is stated that Thompson always claimed that he was making no money.

Chandler has been considered one of the model young men of the place. The writ against him is returnable at the December term of Bennington county court. He has a wife and one child. He furnished bail in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance when wanted.

THE OPENING CONCERT.

Fair-sized Audience Was Much Pleased Last Evening.

The opening entertainment of the Barre lecture course was held last evening in the opera house, with a good attendance but not what the association had anticipated nor what the excellent musical concert given ought to have been accorded.

The audience was an appreciative one, however, and was thoroughly delighted with the manner in which the evening's programme was rendered. The reader, Miss Donnell, has a very pleasing presence on the stage, and her selections were given in a natural and winning manner. The operetta given by the quartette was the feature of the evening and the work of the artists was spoken of in words of high praise by all who heard them.

New Magazines.

A mission is liable to swamp a magazine. So much zeal is developed that the real function of the publication, which is to entertain, is forgotten. Into this excess Everybody's Magazine, which has recently undertaken a crusade against the idleness of the habit in America, is obviously not to be led. The November contents make a most thrilling showing, presenting as it does stories and sketches by such amusing writers as Alfred Henry Lewis, O. Henry and Eugene Wood. There is no intrusion of a policy at all, and the reader is likely to find himself in the midst of Francis Bellamy's articles about "Successful Men who are Not Rich" without dreaming that there is a serious moral to it. There is also an authoritative summing up of the career of John Alexander Dowie by a man with the analytic capacity for the task, I. K. Friedman, the distinguished Chicago novelist.

SUICIDE OR

Died at Montreal.

DEATH BY ASPHYXIATION

Deceased Went to Canadian City Tuesday For Consultation With Physician.

Joseph Adonio of this city, who went to Montreal Tuesday was found dead in his bed at a hotel in that city yesterday morning, and it is believed that he committed suicide on account of ill health, although there is a possibility that death was due to an accident. The cause of death was asphyxiation.

The deceased went to Montreal for the purpose of consulting a physician there regarding his health, he having been a sufferer for some time with lung trouble. It is believed by his friends here that the physician gave him no encouragement so that he became despondent and resolved on ending it all. He stopped at the St. Lawrence hotel on St. Lawrence street.

Yesterday forenoon the employees went to Adonio's room and found his lifeless body. The room was full of gas and a gas jet was wide open. His relatives in this city were notified, and the body will probably be brought to this city for burial.

The deceased was 45 years old and leaves a widow and an infant son. He was born in Taino, Italy. He had lived in Barre about a dozen years, and was employed at the stonemasonry of Z. Macchi, his cousin.
